This course is an elective course offering within the Museum Studies graduate curriculum. It aims to introduce and familiarize students with current and emerging practices in new museology that center around the transdisciplinary concept of truth and reconciliation and its role in contemporary museum praxis and discourse.

Course objectives:

- (1) Students will gain a general understanding of truth and reconciliation as conceptual frameworks that guide contemporary museum practice.
- (2) Develop and improve graduate students' ability to think, evaluate, and enact trauma-informed museum praxis.

- (3) Engage students in transdisciplinary thinking and dialogue about the role museums as sites of community wellness and well-being.
- (4) Engage students in dialogue with local museums and/or museum professionals doing the work of “change-agents.”

Course texts:

Required

1. Cherry, Myisha. (2023). Failures of Forgiveness: What we get wrong and How to do Better. Princeton University Press.
2. Kaur, Valarie. (2021). See No Stranger: a Memoir and Manifesto of Revolutionary Love.

Course evaluation: ARH 6930 is designed to introduce you to the conceptual frameworks of truth, reconciliation, justice, and sustainability, as theoretical, spiritual, embodied practices and processes that guide contemporary museum practices. Course evaluation will reflect this focus and will include a mixture of written and creative assignments, including: participation in mindfulness and wellness-based activities, critical reading reflection journal entries, implementation, management, and design of creative projects, and participation in in-class discussions. A plus/minus grading system will be used.

Mandatory in-Class Participation & Attendance	20%
Grant Application (Due: 2/7)	10%

Grading Scale:

A	93.4 – 100	B+	86.7 – 89.9	C+	76.7 – 79.9	D+	66.7 – 69.9

- an ‘A’ denotes work that is exceptional, as represented by thorough and detailed engagement with ideas from course readings and lectures; careful integration of materials or concepts across themes or topics; logical reasoning; sincere reflection; and precise writing.
- a ‘B’ denotes work that is above average in relationship to your peers’ work and in relationship to the expectations of the assignment.
- a ‘C’ denotes work that fulfills course requirements in every way, but only adequately.

- a ‘D’ denotes work that does not adequately fulfill course requirements, but still deserves credit.
- an ‘F’ denotes work that does not deserve passing credit.
- a ZERO will be assigned to work not turned in. No late assignments, and, as stated previously, plagiarism will result in an “F” for the entire course and you will be reported to the Academic Integrity office for violating university and course policy.

Attendance, in-class participation, discussion leading, discussion questions (35%): Your participation grade will be based on the following criteria:

1. This course is a seminar, or discussion-based and attendance is MANDATORY. You will be expected to participate fully in classroom discussions. In a seminar course students do assigned reading and then, under your own guidance and direction—as well as the guidance of the Professor—we will grapple aloud with the ideas we’ve read, collectively. Our seminar will be a mixture of discussion, mini-lectures, large and small group activities, with an emphasis on understanding course readings. Lectures will not be posted, and discussions and activities completed in class will not be recreated, so attending class is the only place to learn key material on which you will be evaluated. If you miss a class, you are responsible for getting notes from a classmate, including any assignments or announcements that were made. The course may also require mandatory attendance at local museum or public heritage sites, in-person when permitted, or online, if not permissible. All course handouts and materials are available on the course’s elearning page.

Only 1 absence will be excused over the course of the term unless you can provide documentation for a health emergency. However, more than two absences may result in failing the course in addition to lowering your overall course grade. Excessive tardiness will also impact final class averages. Attendance is worth 10 percent of your course grade.
2. Participation in class. Participation includes contributing to in-class discussions by SPEAKING and being intellectually present for each meeting of ARH 6797. When you are not speaking or asking a question, you should be actively LISTENING, which may even include note taking. Meaningful contributions to class discussion should reflect your engagement with the assigned course readings and in-class peer conversation. Not participating in classroom discussions will result in a lower course grade. Participation is worth 10 percent of the course grade.
3. General in-class preparedness. Students are expected to bring the assigned readings to class and to complete all assigned readings prior to attending class. TV, cell phones, music, and other electronic distractions, are not permitted to be out during class time.

Critical Reading Reflections (20%): Over the course of the semester, you will be asked to submit critical reading reflections for 8 separate weeks of your choosing (8 entries out of 13 weeks). Reflections should expand upon the weekly reading theme, teasing out connections to your experiences working with the community and/or your own life history and experiences. These are not formal papers, but rather a place to process course ideas creatively, and self-reflexively, in order to understand and ‘sit with’ your own personal growth. Each entry should be approximately 3 pages in length. I will be collecting your reflections at the end of the term, but they will NOT be read for content. Rather, I document the appropriate number of entries and approximate pages. Reflections can be returned to students upon request.

Possible Questions to Ask yourself:

- What idea(s) from the reading do I find to be really impactful?
- Do I identify with this theme(s) in relation to our coursework in the community?
- How do readings speak to/connect with, or diverge from my own personal experiences and why is it important for me to understand this as a heritage practitioner?

All accompanying written materials should be double-spaced with 12-point font, 1” margins; please follow APA, MLA, or Chicago for citations. Full credit will not be given to written work that does not meet minimum length requirements or fail to properly cite. All reading reflections are due 5/2 at Noon.

In general, about written assignments: Because improving your writing skills is an important goal of the course, your grades for these assignments will emphasize this objective. Written assignments must have a clear objective and thesis statement, supported throughout by source-specific evidence (in other words, engage directly with your assigned course readings), and a clearly organized order of discussion and reading flow. Please feel free to stop in for office hours, or make an appointment, to meet with me to discuss any problems or questions that you might have about the assignment or readings. I also encourage you to utilize the services of the <https://writing.ufl.edu/writing-studio/>. For your own protection, please make certain that you continuously save your written work as you write and back up those documents on a flash drive or external hard drive. You should also save all graded work until you receive your final grade in the course. In the event that work goes missing or a grade gets miscalculated, this will provide the only acceptable evidence that you turned in a particular assignment or received a particular grade.

Policy on late submissions: Unless you have provided substantial documented evidence for need of an extension, and have discussed the situation with me well in advance of the impending deadline, late assignments will receive a 10% reduction in your grade for each day that exceeds the stated assignment deadline. Extensions will be given only under the most extraordinary circumstances, and I do not except late assignments after one week past the original deadline. Malfunctioning computers, printers and so on are not reasonable grounds for an extension. Save your work regularly and in multiple locations and be prepared to print your work in a computer lab if necessary. Please note that I will be the sole judge of what constitutes an extraordinary circumstance, that in most cases my granting of an extension will require that you submit a note from a doctor or other appropriate official, and that extensions must be negotiated in advance. Please also note that sending me an email does not constitute negotiating an extension. Unless we have spoken and agreed on a new date, the original date stands.

How to reach the Instructor: E-mail is the best way to reach me, jmicielivoutsina@ufl.edu

In communicating with me, please note the following tips:

1. I will make every effort to respond to your email within 24-48 hours, 9:00 am—4:00 pm, Monday—Friday. Outside of those times, I am unavailable. Please think ahead when working on assignments.
2. Letters of Recommendation: If you would like a letter of recommendation you should work throughout the semester to distinguish yourself so that there is evidence of your excellence. In addition, help me help you.
 - Ask for the letter a minimum of ONE MONTH in advance of the deadline
 - Include information on the job, internship, academic opportunity, etc. that you are applying for
 - Include your CV and achievement you would like highlighted in the letter
 - Clearly state the deadline and how the letter should be submitted
 - Gentle reminders leading up to the deadline are greatly appreciated

Diversity Statement: The Museum Studies Program at UF is committed to engaged and responsive museum education and practice. We embrace intellectual rigor and center principles of Equity, Inclusion, Access, and (Social) Justice in our curricula and learning. As such, our ongoing approach to curricula prioritizes expansive intersectionality and exemplifying the diversity of identities present in the world. In addition, we embrace diverse ideologies of thought and ask that our students respect the fluidity of ideas and exchange that occurs in and outside of the classroom. We hold deep regard and respect for the positionality and lived experiences of others. As agents of change, we practice and encourage on-going personal assessment of bias and create compassionate learning and space-making for educational and intellectual growth.

Please Note: In this course, we may read, view, and discuss materials that directly deals with difficult, painful, and politically charged subjects. It is inevitable that these materials will evoke a personal response, therefore it is important to be aware that our responses to certain course material may prove to be unsettling or challenging to come to terms with, or may even be informed by our own experiences of trauma. The success of the course thus depends, in large part, on our striving to be aware of and sensitive to our emotional responses to the assigned texts, as well as those of our colleagues, and to be curious with ourselves as to why we are responding as we are. We must encourage ourselves to therefore read and discuss the course materials in ways that produce more truthful dialogues about our shared pasts, without reproducing harm unto each other and ourselves in the present, while also remaining empathically attuned to each other in ways that actively create decolonial, anti-racist, and gender-inclusive space. All sensitive documents will be marked with an “” to indicate a trigger warning.*

UF Religious Observances Policy: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/#religiousholidaystext> For University of Florida Students, the following guidelines apply: Students, upon prior notification of their instructors, shall be excused from class or other scheduled academic activity to observe a religious holy day of their faith. Students shall be permitted a reasonable amount of time to make up the material or activities covered in their absence. Students shall not be penalized due to absence from class or other scheduled academic activity because of religious observances. A student who is to be excused from class for a religious observance is not required to provide a second party certification of the reason for the absence.

Student Accommodations: Students with diverse abilities and learning needs requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, <http://www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/>) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to me when requesting accommodation. Students with diverse abilities and learning needs should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.

Course evaluations: Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course based on ten criteria. These evaluations are conducted online at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results>.

Academic Dishonesty: Academic dishonesty includes plagiarizing, cheating, turning in counterfeit papers, stealing academic materials, knowingly falsifying academic documents, accessing confidential academic records without authorization, disclosing confidential academic information without authorization, and turning in the same work to more than one class without the expressed permission of the instructors involved. An online plagiarism checker service may be used to screen papers. Please note that recording class discussions will not be permitted under any circumstances. Students are, however, allowed to record video or audio of class lectures only, but please note that the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.¹ In ARH 6797, all of the above are prohibited. Any student deemed to have engaged in academic dishonesty will be subject to disciplinary action from the University and will also receive a “no credit” (i.e., a zero) for the assignment.

¹ A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third-party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student.

Academic Honesty: UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: ‘On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.’” The Honor Code (<http://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please ask me. UF’s policies regarding academic honesty, the honor code, and student conduct related to the honor code will be strictly enforced. This means a report will be filed with the Student Conduct and Conflict Resolution office. During exams, personal items must be cleared from desks and chairs and placed in a bag on the floor. For information on what constitutes plagiarism, consult the UF Plagiarism Guide at <http://web.uflib.ufl.edu/msl/07b/studentplagiarism.html> and “Misuse of Sources” on the course web site. If you have any questions, please ask me.

Software Use: All faculty, staff, and students at the University are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against University policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate. We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to uphold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity.

Student Privacy: There are federal laws protecting your privacy with regards to grades earned in courses and on individual assignments. For more information, please see: <http://registrar.ufl.edu/catalog0910/policies/regulationferpa.html>
