Class Meetings: Weekly, TBA

Credits: 1-3 (usually 3 depending upon assignment).

Goal:

- to utilize our department's production work as a learning tool. This includes the entire approach and execution of the design process. Through your efforts in completing your assigned position, the instructor will be able to evaluate your methods, skills, progress and knowledge with the goal being a noticeable gain in all areas.

Method:

Students will be assigned a "position" on a particular project chosen by their instructor. These positions include : Set Designer, Assistant Set Designer, Prop Master, Scenic Charge Artist, Assistant Technical Director. They will be responsible for all elements indicated in the grading outline. The method of the course is found in the design process itself. This can include research, direction, collaboration, budget, schedules and guidance.

Attendance:

Attendance at weekly meetings is required of all students. Despite the fact that your project has not be started or has been completed, your presence and verbal contributions are necessary on other ongoing projects.

More than two absences will result in severe reduction in a student's grade regardless of the success of the student's project.

Class Demeanor:

Students enrolled are expected to be ready to make useful contributions to the progression of the design work that is being developed. This contributions may be verbal or visual. Participation through critique and suggestions on other student’s work is expected.

Grading: Students are graded according to the criteria listed below. Some elements within these sections are more relative to the specific position that has been assigned to the student, however the individual sections will carry the same listed percentage rate with all assignments.
