Because this class culminates with your participation as a member of a technical crew or management team within a production or event, it possesses a very unique structure and follows a non-traditional class schedule. It is vital that you read the complete syllabus and if there is any confusion, ask questions. Due to the nature of the schedule, there is an understanding that if you are taking this class, it is mandatory that you attend all the events assigned within this syllabus. This is imperative during performance week. You are an important part of a team with specific and often unique duties that only you will know how to accomplish. You should have this week totally clear to work the show – no exceptions without it affecting your grade.

It is your responsibility to know your Showcase Experience schedule. Check your UFL email & the dance studio bulletin boards for updates often.

Class Description:
This course is designed to develop awareness in dance and theatre production as it relates to creative work leading to performance; to gain knowledge and skills ‘behind the scenes’ of a production and to learn what it takes to produce either a full evening repertory performance or the mechanisms behind building and running an event, such as a festival or conference.

Objectives:
• To expand the student’s knowledge in technical backstage theatre work for dance concerts/showcase venues and/or event organization and management for specific events related to the field of dance.
• To develop an awareness of the development of dance productions both creatively and practically, as well as develop an appreciation for what happens on both sides of the curtain.
• To develop management skills related to the execution of a production or event.
• To expose the student to fresh approaches to the creative process.
• To develop skills related to working as a team to accomplish tasks and fulfill assignments.
• To provide the student with experiences which reinforce their discipline and strengthen their sense of responsibility within a pre-professional creative environment.

Terms:

Load-in
This is a scheduled event where the crew converts the studio space into a performance space. It usually requires the set-up of platforms and chairs, the placement of lighting “trees” and cables, the hanging of curtains, and other set-up as required. You must wear closed-toe shoes to this event.

Strike
This is a scheduled event after the final show where the crew reverses what was accomplished in the load-in. You must wear closed-toe shoes to this event.

Crew Call
The time when you are required to be in the building and ready to go – it is NOT the time when you walk in the building.

Serving as Crew
The crew to any show is a vital part of the production process. Serving as a crew member means that you will be doing preparation of the actual show prior to the arrival of the audience and staying to set up for the next show after the audience leaves. You may be assisting the dancers, setting up set pieces or props during the show, mopping the stage, or simply waiting for your next assignment. (This is a’ hurry up and wait’ business, so be sure to bring some homework with you!) Your authority figure (besides the faculty members) is the Stage Manager. Even if this is a peer, you are expected to listen and obey. When given a command or a call by the Stage Manager or Assistant Stage Manager, one always says, “Thank you” and repeats the command (example: The Stage Manager says, “Five Minute call.” The proper response is, “Thank you, five.”) A good crew member is one who sees the task before it is required of them, or asks what can they do to help.

Please make a copy of this page and turn it in during the first UnShowing. By signing this, it means that you have read this syllabus and will abide by the guidelines and schedule for Showcase Experience.
