COURSE DESCRIPTION:
This course serves as an introduction to technical, conceptual, and art historical understandings of using digital processes for art making. We will learn basic competency in Photoshop, Illustrator, Premier, and Dreamweaver. While technical skill is an essential component of the course, we will also devote a significant amount of time to researching contemporary art history, directly and indirectly related to digital arts, and conceptual issues that surround implementing the computer as an art tool. We will accomplish these objectives via demonstrations, lectures, discussions, short exercises, readings, student presentations, and creating art with these new tools.

My classroom ambitions include making you all independent thinkers and researchers for both future technical endeavors and conceptual social, political, and aesthetic issues. Ideally, I want you to find a link between the difficult ideas we will be studying and your everyday lived experiences.

Objectives
- Develop an understanding of the computer as a medium for reflecting and expressing cultural values.
- Become aware of the history and foundation of digital art/new media art as a construct.
- Develop an understanding of the thought processes that contribute to the scientific and artistic development of the field.
- Situate digital practices within the continuum of contemporary art.
- Integrate research practices into the development of digital media artworks.
- Develop methodologies for creating work that result in informed, cogent output.
- Learn to propose and present ideas in a way that clearly demonstrates intent.

Required Materials: a storage device (at least 8GB of space), a sketchbook/process book for ideation //
Suggested Materials: a website which you have constant access to. You can buy a domain and web space for very cheap if you pay monthly. We will discuss in class the ideal time to invest in this.
If you do not own these materials, buy them, use the resources of the University, or borrow them elsewhere. You must have a working email address and access to a high-speed Internet connection to succeed in this class. Be sure your email is working and isn’t full.

Readings will consist of pdfs and urls available on the class website.

ASSESSMENT:
PARTICIPATION: Participation, support, and respect in all phases of this course are imperative. The class dynamic depends on your energy, initiative, attitude, productivity, and willingness to get involved in group discussion and critiques. Participate in a responsive manner during critique, class discussion, and exercises. Be safe and thoughtful with equipment and facilities. You are expected to refrain from personal communication devices (texts, im, email, etc.) and non-course related web surfing during class time. That means:  No browsing Facebook, Twitter, Snapchat, etc. during class!

PRESENCE OF MIND AND BODY: Being in class is your opportunity to get feedback from the instructor and your classmates. Take advantage of it! Ask questions and contribute answers. Offer constructive criticism during group discussions, class workdays, and critiques. Reflect on the comments you receive to gauge the effectiveness of your work. Examine the way your ideas change, evolve, and influence formal and conceptual choices in your work. Your development as an artist hinges on your ability to make effective choices and express ideas clearly.

CRITIQUES: A critique is like an exam. You must be present and on time on these days. You must participate and give respectful feedback. While we critique you must understand that your peers are reacting to the work in front of them. They are not attacking you. They still adore you. There is no need to be defensive. A good rule of thumb, even if you disagree with what is said, is to nod and jot down the criticisms for later reflection.

A – Superlative work: careful attention to craft and presentation. Intent and execution of the piece work together in a significant and original way; goes beyond merely solving the problem – one’s performance at this level is visibly outstanding.
B+ – Above average: solution to the problem and idea are well planned; execution is well done. This is an honorable grade.
B – A bit above average: slipping in levels of originality, craft, and presentation. This piece does not work as well as a unified whole or statement yet effort was made. Solid average work.
C+ - Problem solved: the requirements of the problem are met in a relatively routine way. A ‘C’ represents satisfactory work, regular attendance, and successful accomplishment of the course.
C – Requirements of the problem are met in a relatively routine way. There is room for improving skills and concepts.
D – Inadequate work: The requirements of the problem are not addressed. The piece represents careless and/or incomplete effort. Some criteria met, work substandard.
F – Unacceptable work and effort

Grading guidelines will be explained in detail at the time each assignment is given. Always read the project description sheet. If anything seems unclear, you are responsible for asking me for clarification far in advance of the due date.
ATTENDANCE: Students are expected to attend class and be prepared to participate. Up to two (2) unexcused absences are allowed. The overall grade is lowered by 5% for each unexcused absence thereafter. Tardiness and/or lack of appropriate class materials is unacceptable and will count as unexcused absences if they become a habit. Medical and family emergencies can generally be accommodated with letters.

LATE WORK: Late assignments and projects will be penalized up to 20% for the first day 10% for each subsequent day (up to instructor’s discretion) and will not be accepted after one week from the due date.

 Attending critique is one of the most important aspects of the class. Even if you are not prepared to turn in your project, come to critique! This way you can at least get your critique participation points and it will show me that you are serious about the project and your dedication to the class.
