Objectives/Goals: To enhance understanding of and performance capabilities of flute repertoire (including solo literature, etudes, and orchestral excerpts) through regular practice, lessons, peer reviews in studio class, and research. To develop musically and professionally through study of appropriate interpretation, phrasing, articulation, tone production, posture, and historical style. To create well-rounded, knowledgeable, and exceptionally expressive flutists.

Materials: Students will need a flute, music stand for practicing, metronome, tuner, and original copies of the repertoire agreed upon at the beginning of the semester. Students should also maintain a spiral notebook (provided) containing all flute-related materials for each semester, including practice and lesson logs. There is no specific required text for this course, each student will be learning different solos and etudes.

Description: Each student will receive one 50-minute individual lesson each week (a total of 13 lessons). Students should practice regularly and have all assigned materials prepared prior to the lesson time. The entire flute studio will meet on Mondays (as indicated on the Flute Studio Schedule) to work on performance skills. Attendance at these classes and at all lessons is mandatory. Students must be available during 6th period on Mondays to attend flute studio class and area recitals. Music majors must also be available on Fridays 6th for convocations.

Cancelled lesson policy: If a student feels unprepared or needs to cancel just prior to a lesson, the student forfeits that lesson time with no chance for a make-up lesson. If a student cancels a lesson more than 24 hours in advance due to illness or emergency, the professor may make up the lesson at her discretion and availability. Occasionally the professor may have obligations, such as performances or recruiting, which will require her to reschedule lessons with students.

Whatever the reason, if a student knows he/she will miss a lesson, the professor must be contacted prior to the lesson time. Be aware that canceling lessons for reasons other than illness or family emergency will affect your grade.

REQUIRED ATTENDANCE:
IN ADDITION TO FLUTE STUDIO CLASS AND WOODWIND AREA
RECITALS, EACH FLUTE STUDENT WILL ATTEND SOLO RECITALS BY FLUTE STUDENTS AND BY DR. STONER, THE STUDIO RECITAL, GUEST
ARTIST MASTERCLASSES AND RECITALS, AS DETAILED IN THE SEMESTER

2. attendance of flute studio class, area recitals, convocations, and student recitals during 6th period
3. attendance of all flute student recitals, visiting artist recitals, and woodwind faculty recitals. If you must miss a flute-related event, contact Dr. Stoner as soon as possible to determine if your absence will be excused.

5. students will write constructive comments for performers in flute studio class

8. students will listen to available recordings of works they are studying – this will be included in lesson preparation grade
9. note – not all lesson assignments will be performance-based. If a text or article is appropriate to the repertoire being studied, it may also be assigned and included in the lesson preparation grade
10. if a student is planning a recital, follow the School of Music Guidelines for recital programming, in consultation with your professor.
11. After the end-of-semester jury, a brief meeting will be scheduled to discuss the jury performance, the student's progress, and plan future repertoire.
