DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSE: Exploration of the social and theoretical foundations of contemporary art education practice.

STRUCTURE OF THE COURSE: This course includes two major components: weekly class meetings and field experiences. Students will: (1) meet as a group for three periods each week for lectures, group discussions, and other classroom activities; and (2) participate in a weekly field experience (three periods per week) that will involve assisting in a school classroom and assuming a limited teaching role.

PURPOSE AND OBJECTIVES OF THE COURSE: This course is structured to assist pre-service art teachers in developing confidence, knowledge, critical thinking and communication skills in the theory and practice of teaching art. The emphasis in this course is on learning how the art teacher can use educational theory and research to shape instructional practices in the classroom and in alternative educational settings. The course also emphasizes critical thinking skills, writing and research in art education. The following objectives are aligned with the 6 Florida Educator Accomplished Practices (FEAP) mandated by Florida legislation (Statute 240.529). At the completion of this course, students will have a basic knowledge of:

- Explore the role of community and globalization in the teaching of art.
- Use theories of child development to integrate diverse student learning styles (special and exceptional needs) in the classroom.
- Explore implications of contemporary research on cognition and creativity for art education practices..
- Explore content integration and interdisciplinary approaches to the teaching of art.
- Consider the laws and court decrees that address the rights and obligations of students, parents, and educators.
- Design a plan for data collection to inform teaching and student progress.
- Use aesthetic philosophies and theories, and how to apply them to facilitating classroom discourse about art.
- Use modern and post-modern strategies in teaching art.
- Use uses of digital technologies as a teaching and learning tool in art education.
- Demonstrate professional responsibilities and standards for art teachers in public school settings.

In addition, this course fulfills the student learning outcomes for the Humanities (H) and Gordon Rule education designations as indicated on the General Education website: http://www.cba.ufl.edu/gened/docs/GenEd\_SLO.pdf and <http://www.registrar.ufl.edu/catalog/policies/advisinggordon.html> . This course provides instruction in the key themes, principles and terminology in the field of art education. The courses focus on the history, theory and methodologies used within art education, enabling students to identify and to analyze the key elements, biases and influences that shape thought. This course emphasizes clear and effective analysis and approaches issues and problems from multiple points of view.

METHODS OF THE COURSE: The primary instructional methods of this class will include lecture, readings, group discussions and individual projects. To assist students in developing a full understanding of the course content, other methods of learning may be employed as needed. Students will be assessed through writings, participation in discussions, journaling, projects, and their professionalism. Students will be expected to take primary responsibility for their own professional development.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS: To achieve the objectives of this course, each student will:

- read and respond in writing to assigned readings about course content
- complete all in-class and out-of-class activities associated with the course
- complete an a professional development plan on a topic of choice related to course content

ARE4243 Academic Policies and Procedures:

"There are two aspects of providing occasions for wonderful ideas. One is being prepared to accept children's ideas. The other is providing a setting which suggests wonderful ideas to children." (Duckworth, E., 1987 pg. 224)

Electronic Device Policy: A note on cell phones, texting, and checking one's email during class: Research has shown us that even having our cell phones on the table in front of us diminishes our ability to learn well; further, taking notes via computer diminishes one's ability to process information. Checking texts, emails, and messages is also unprofessional and disrespectful to our class community. Please put your phones on vibrate, do not check email, Facebook etc. via computer during class; I will do so as well. I appreciate your cooperation with this important aspect of creating a class of which we all want to be a part.

Late Work and Make-Up Work Policy:

Late assignments lose 10% of their value for being late and will not be accepted beyond 7 days of the due date. Being absent from class does not excuse a student from meeting deadlines. Students will have the opportunity to make up work missed only when absence is excused and permission is requested and given through email.
