

MUL2010: INTRODUCTION TO MUSIC LITERATURE

Spring 2020 – Class # 18213/18219 (Online)

Instructor: Phillip J. Herr-Klepacki, MM

Instructor Office: 207 University Auditorium

Instructor Phone: 352.846.3426

Office Hours: Office hours are by appointment, and meetings with the instructor can be conducted in person or online via Canvas (using the Conferences tool). To schedule a meeting – either virtual or in person – please contact me via Canvas e-mail. All correspondence with the instructor should be conducted through the Inbox tool in Canvas – unless Canvas is down, you should NOT send messages to my e-mail address (it makes it easier to manage messages if they're all in Canvas). I am logged into Canvas mainly during business hours during the week (8:00-16:00 Eastern time), so you should expect return correspondence during these times; responses may take longer on the weekend or in case of holidays.

Course Description

MUL 2010 is designed to examine music and its role in culture: how it both shapes and is shaped by social, political, national, and cultural forces. Examples from art music, popular music, and world music will be used to demonstrate music's inextricable link to life in both historical and contemporary settings. No prior or concurrent courses are required for enrollment in MUL 2010, nor is any prior musical training or experience.

General Education and Student Learning Outcomes

This course satisfies humanities (H) and international (N) requirements for general education. Humanities courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and theory or methodologies used within a humanities discipline or the humanities in general. Students will learn to identify and to analyze the key elements, biases, and influences that shape thought. These courses emphasize clear and effective analysis and approach issues and problems from multiple perspectives.

International courses provide instruction in the values, attitudes, and norms that constitute the contemporary cultures of countries outside the United States. These courses lead students to understand how geographic location and socioeconomic factors affect these cultures and the lives of citizens in other countries. Through analysis and evaluation of the students' own cultural norms and values in relation to those held by the citizens of other countries, they will develop a cross-cultural understanding of the rest of the contemporary world.

In MUL2010, the course is broken down into four major sections, each containing 3 to 4 modules, through which a variety of aspects on music are addressed in the context of three major classifications of music: Western "art" music; "popular" music; and "world" music:

- Music Fundamentals: In the introductory section, students learn about how music is experienced individually and culturally; how music is classified (as "world," "popular," or "art"); and how to actively listen to pieces. Essential elements of music are introduced and demonstrated, and then applied by students as they analyze three short pieces.
- Musical Identities: Here, the use of music to express individual and collective identities is explored; modules focus on the relationships between music and ethnicity, gender, and spirituality.
- Musical Intersections: This section focuses on music's relationship to social and political realms, including politics/national identity, war/conflict, and love.
- Musical Narratives: The final section addresses the social experience of music through the concert hall, theater, film, and dance. The history of these genres, as well as the social and cultural aspects of them, are discussed and analyzed.

General education student learning outcomes describe the knowledge, skills, and attitudes that students are expected to acquire while completing a general education course at the University of Florida. These outcomes fall into three areas: content, communication, and critical thinking.

- Content: Students demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, methodologies, and theories used within the discipline. Content is primarily assessed through the module quizzes.
- Communication: Students communicate knowledge, ideas, and reasoning clearly and effectively in written or oral forms appropriate to the discipline. Communication is primarily assessed through students' original posts and responses on the discussion boards.
- Critical Thinking: Students analyze information carefully and logically from multiple perspectives, using discipline specific methods, and develop reasoned solutions to problems. Critical thinking is primarily assessed through the listening guide assignments.

Textbooks

REQUIRED: Cornelius, Steven, and Mary Natvig. Music: A Social Experience. Routledge, 2011. Print and E-text versions are available. The course material is based around the first edition of the text; though this is out of print, used copies may be available. The second edition of the text will work, although you may find that chapter and page numbers differ from those in the course modules.

RECOMMENDED: A current edition of a writing style manual (MLA, APA, Chicago). While the field of musicology adheres to the Chicago Manual of Style, students may choose whichever style manual is recommended by their major discipline. As the listening guides require research, students not located on the UF campus must have access to a library with the scholarly resources needed to complete these assignments.

Objectives

This course is designed to enhance the student's understanding of music from a technical, aesthetic, historical, and sociological perspective. To accomplish these goals, the course will concentrate on:

- The development of an attentive style of listening
- The introduction and systematic study of the building blocks of music
- Enhancing awareness of the main musical styles of selected Western and non-Western cultures.
- Application of critical thinking skills to musical constructs in order to better understand human creativity and problem-solving.

Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, the student will be able to:

- Identify the basic components of music using discipline-specific terminology.
- Describe musical works by accurately employing the vocabulary learned in this course.
- Aurally identify musical instruments and voices by classification.
- Aurally identify rudimentary melodic, harmonic, rhythmic, and textural structures.
- Demonstrate an understanding of musical form and texture.
- Express an aesthetic response to a work of art and verbally defend it.
- Define an overview of some of the major stylistic periods in Western music and draw analogies to other arts from the same era.
- Identify some of the major works and artists from these periods.
- Compare and contrast these works to contemporary, popular, and non-Western musical examples.
- Recognize and describe the role(s) that music plays in their own lives, regional culture, and contemporary society as a whole.

- A greater understanding of Western concert music, as well as modern popular music.
- An enhanced receptivity to the music of other cultures

Evaluation

The grades for this course will be based on a 354-point system, broken down as follows:

110 points (31% of grade) = eleven quizzes (10 points each), one per module

20 points (6% of grade) = end-of-semester listening reflection

140 points (39% of grade) = 3 listening guides, written according to guidelines presented during the course (listening guide 1 = 38 points; listening guide 2 = 46 points; listening guide 3 = 56 points)

84 points (24% of grade) = participation in online discussions: one introductory discussion, and five topic-specific discussions as assigned. Each student makes an original post (8 points), followed by responses to at least two other posts (3 points each). A grading rubric will be provided for both the individual post and responses.

Final grades will be calculated according to the point system below and are not negotiable. If you “need an A,” plan to log in regularly, study, listen to the music, meet deadlines, and be honest. You are responsible for keeping track of your progress throughout the semester – the Gradebook in Canvas will always show your current grade. If you are doing poorly, especially near the withdrawal deadline (April 10, 2020), please feel free to discuss your progress with me. However, keep in mind that the numbers are the numbers; being “close to” a certain grade does not warrant receiving it. The instructor reserves the right to give (or not give) extra credit beyond that already built into the course – please do not ask for special/individual extra credit opportunities (especially if you have not been on top of all required assignments).

All grades will be determined based on the following scale (corresponding grade points are listed in parentheses, consistent with the university grading regulations outlined at <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/grades-grading-policies/>):

333-354 points = A (4.00)	283-296 points = B- (2.67)	237-247 points = D+ (1.33)
319-332 points = A- (3.67)	272-282 points = C+ (2.33)	226-236 points = D (1.00)
308-318 points = B+ (3.33)	261-271 points = C (2.00)	213-225 points = D- (0.67)
297-307 points = B (3.00)	248-260 points = C- (1.67)	0-212 points = E (0)

PLEASE NOTE: If you perceive a grading error, you must address the issue within 72 hours of the grade posting, otherwise the grade is final and will not be discussed further. Specific grade questions and concerns will only be discussed with the student. Due to the 1974 Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, I cannot and will not discuss your progress or grades with your parents. For more information on FERPA, please visit <http://www.registrar.ufl.edu/ferpa.html>. Any correspondence received from anyone other than you will be responded to with a link to the FERPA information site and nothing more.

Attendance and Conduct

While the presentation of this course in an online format gives you, the student, great freedom in deciding when to engage the course, it is expected that you will log on to the course website regularly and check all assignments. This is not a “self-paced” course – all required assignments for the course will be due according to the dates listed in the Due Dates PDF posted in Canvas. The nature of the course format is such that it will not be possible to submit assignments or take quizzes after the closing deadline. In the event that late assignments are accepted/permitted, there will be a substantial grade penalty assessed (specific grade penalties vary and are listed on the assignment page in Canvas). Once you have read this syllabus to completion, please email me (via Canvas inbox) your favorite woman yelling at cat meme. Please note that technical difficulties do arise, and will generally not be considered an excuse to miss a deadline (especially without documentation from the UF Computing Helpdesk) – it is in your best interest to complete your assignments early so that you have time to work through any unforeseeable problems. You are advised to read through the technical information posted on the e-Learning website (<http://elearning.ufl.edu>) to minimize any potential technical issues.

For conflicts that may arise due to University-sponsored events or religious holidays, you are advised to plan your work in advance. The instructor recognizes and will comply with the University’s attendance policy (<https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>); however, since no assignment requires that you log on the day of the deadline, you are responsible for planning ahead and taking care of work before a trip or holiday (including university holidays such as Homecoming). If a conflict seems unavoidable, you must contact the instructor at least one week prior to the date in question.

High school dual-enrollment students: I recognize that various public school districts observe different days off and break periods. For the purposes of this course, you are a University of Florida student and will adhere to the UF calendar of holidays and breaks, and specifically the assignment deadlines listed in the Due Dates PDF. Please plan ahead: if your spring break will fall during a week where assignments are due, you must submit early or otherwise plan to log in while you are on break, as well as plan to be back on schedule when your break ends.

Academic Honesty

All violations of academic honesty will be referred to the Dean of Students Office for disciplinary action, without exception. PLAGIARISM OR CHEATING WILL RESULT IN A FAILING GRADE FOR THE PLAGIARIZED ASSIGNMENT, AND POSSIBLY THE COURSE. If you are uncertain about these guidelines, please see me. Ignorance to the law is no excuse.

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code." On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment." The Honor Code (<http://sccr.dso.ufl.edu/process/student-conduct-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

Honorlock has been enabled for all quizzes in the course. You will enable Honorlock in the "Start Here" quiz, so please allow time to take this quiz before its published due date. Note that Honorlock requires Google Chrome, so you should plan to install this browser if you are not already using it. (Chrome is typically one of the most stable browsers with Canvas anyway, so it's good practice to have it available.)

The instructor reserves the right to amend any portion of the course structure, including items listed on the Due Dates.

Accommodations

Students requesting classroom accommodations must first register with the Disability Resource Center (0001 Reid Hall; 352.392.8565; <http://disability.ufl.edu/>) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter that must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester. Accommodations are not provided retroactively.

Online Course Evaluations

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at <http://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/>. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via <http://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/>. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at <http://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/public-results/>.

Evaluations are collected anonymously (unless a student provides identifying information in the open comments), and are not available to the instructor until after final grades are submitted and posted. Your feedback is valuable in making improvements to the course.
