Repertoire will primarily include new works by composers crafting significant opuses focusing on diversity and inclusion. Additional focus will be on the production of new works and theatre practices in the COVID-19 environment.

COVID-19 Note: Instructional delivery policy - The safety of our students and staff is our number one priority. We will primarily meet online. In-person hybrid classes will only convene when there are proper measures in place to keep everyone protected. Masks, social distancing, and other protocols will be maintained at all times. No in-person singing or contact will occur until it is safe to do so.

Course Goals:

Two late arrivals at a rehearsal are counted as one absence. Unless excused, each absence beyond one absence will result in a lowering of one letter grade. These two absences would be equivalent to missing a week of class. Check syllabus and class schedule on material covered in case of any absence.

NOTES

1. We are singing in English, Italian, and French. Be sure to check in advance if your scenes are in the original language or an English translation.
2. Be sure to register for the appropriate class in Music (Opera Workshop MUO3503)
3. Gator alumnus, Tim Tebow, won the Heisman Trophy (awarded to the most outstanding college football player) in 2007. He played on two National Championship football teams.

Attire:

Wear comfortable, loose-fitting clothing. T-Shirts and sweat pants are welcome.

Rehearsal Etiquette:

Focus and engagement is paramount to maintaining a professional/creative working environment. Therefore, unless a performer is on an extended break from a scene, smartphones, iPads, laptops, etc. are not to be used.

Recording protocol:

Rehearsals are safe places to experiment, make bold choices, and create expressive theatre with your colleagues. The prospect of images or video recordings of these rehearsals being archived or posted on social media is counterproductive and not allowed.

- Once the piece is ready for public performance, pictures and video will be allowed but ONLY with the permission of everyone in the scene.

* Some scenes will be recorded as a teaching tool but only shown in class.
