Description

In this survey of the history of photography, we will trace photographic practice from its invention in 1839 to the present. We will look at how the refinement of photographic technologies successively altered the ways in which humans perceived the world. With the new visions afforded by the camera, photography became a catalyst for social and political change. In a roughly chronological fashion, we will follow the trajectory of photography’s intervention in diverse cultural fields: not only fine art but also biology, anthropology, fashion, and advertising. Students can expect to engage with primary source writings as well as photographic theory from multiple methodological points of view.

Goals of the Course

- To become familiar with major photographic movements from the 1840s to the present
- To situate fine-art and utilitarian photographic production within broader cultural, intellectual, and social concerns of the twentieth century
- To refine skills of art historical interpretation and analysis as those methods apply to photography

Attendance

As this class will be heavily discussion-based, participation in the synchronous online meetings—or face-to-face meetings—is an integral part of the student’s grade. Full attendance in the live meetings will be especially important in trying to maintain the continuity of the classroom experience. Attendance will be taken in each class, and students are granted one unexcused absence for the semester. Any additional unexcused absence will result in a deduction of 1/3 of the final letter grade (per absence) for the course.

Absences will be excused in the case of severe illness, a family emergency, or religious observation. Please contact me directly, and in advance, concerning these and any other potential class conflicts.

Technology & Etiquette

We will be meeting in a hybrid fashion, with in person and online instruction synchronous via Zoom. Zoom is an inherently distracting platform; I ask for your patience and composure during our time together. Out of respect for fellow students, please refrain from disruptive behavior, including texting and getting up unnecessarily in the middle of class. It is expected that the internet will be used for course material only; outside websites or messaging platforms are prohibited during our meetings.

Please note: Our class sessions will be audio visually recorded for students in the class to refer back and for enrolled students who are unable to attend live. Students who participate with their camera engaged or utilize a profile image are agreeing to have their video or image recorded. I kindly ask that you keep your video on during our class time; this will help us keep a degree of connectivity at a distance. However, if you are unwilling to consent to have your profile or video image recorded, please notify me at the beginning of the semester. Likewise, students who un-mute during class and participate orally are agreeing to have their voices recorded. If you are not willing to consent to have your voice recorded during class, you will need to keep your mute button activated and communicate exclusively using the "chat" feature, which allows students to type questions and comments live. The chat will not be recorded or shared. As in all courses, unauthorized recording and unauthorized sharing of recorded materials is prohibited.

Canvas & Email

All course-related business will be conducted through Canvas. This is where you will download class readings, turn in assignments, and take quizzes. If you have any questions for me, or would like to schedule a meeting, please email me through Canvas. I will try to respond to emails in a timely manner but note that I will be checking emails only during weekdays, until 6 pm. Please plan accordingly.

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS

Photographic Projects (25%)

Due 10am the day of class

Throughout the semester, students will have an opportunity to engage interactively with the different forms of photography. On the assigned weeks, students will make a work or find a current example that corresponds to the topic covered in the readings. Accompanying the object, students must write a 300-word reflection post that makes specific connections to the historical material covered in class. The five modes we will cover in these projects are: portraiture, science, avant-garde, documentation, and appropriation.

These small projects are essentially creative reading responses. To that end, you will need to plan on doing the readings in advance before making or finding a work. A successful project is one that thoughtfully and meaningfully connects with the artists and techniques discussed in the readings.

Exams (30%)

Two exams will take place over the course of the semester. Exams will include identification questions, slide comparisons, and short essay questions. I will make lecture slides available on Canvas in PDF form, identifying select works for which you should be responsible (expect to memorize about 35-40 per quiz). N.B. The second exam will not be cumulative.

Visual Analysis (10%) & Final Project (25%)

Students will choose one photograph created between 1840 and 2010 to study and to research from. This will be the topic of two projects over the course of the semester: a short object analysis paper and a research-based essay. Individual student projects will be plotted on a digital timeline, using Timeline JS, to create a visual overview of photographic history.

COURSE POLICIES

Diversity Statement

The intent is that we explore the content of this course in a way that is respectful of diversity: gender identity, sexuality, ability, age, socioeconomic status, ethnicity, race, nationality, religion, and culture. The intent is also to present content that explores diverse points of view, which might be challenging. Maintaining a respectful environment will be our responsibility. The intent is that students from all diverse backgrounds and perspectives be well-served by this course and that the diversity that the students bring to this class be viewed as a resource, strength and benefit. Your suggestions are encouraged and appreciated.

Accommodations

I am committed to ensuring access to course content for all students. Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the disability Resource Center. Click here to get started with the Disability Resource Center. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester.

If you have already been approved for accommodations, please meet with me within the first two weeks of the term so we can develop an implementation plan together. It is important to meet as early in the term as possible; this will ensure that your accommodations are implemented early on. If you have accommodations for test-taking, please remember that arrangements must be made at least a week before the date of the test or exam.

Evaluations

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Click here for guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via ufl.bluera.com/ufl/. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students here.

Late Work

Late work will only be accepted under extenuating circumstances. Please contact me in advance if you anticipate any issues in meeting the deadlines for this class. In fairness to your fellow students, any work turned in late without explanation will be reduced 1/3 a letter grade for every day late.

Academic Integrity & Honor Code

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge, which states:

“We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: ‘On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.’”

<https://sccr.dso.ufl.edu/policies/student-honor-code-student-conduct-code/>

For this class, infractions on academic integrity may include cheating on quizzes, plagiarizing papers, submitting the same paper for credit in two courses, buying papers, submitting fraudulent documents and forging signatures. Proper citations are required for representing any idea that is not your own; Chicago Manual of Style is the preferred citation style for Art History. If you have questions about plagiarism, you may consult the following library guide:

<http://guides.uflib.ufl.edu/copyright/plagiarism>.

UF’s policies regarding academic honesty, the Honor Code, and student conduct related to the Honor Code will be strictly enforced. This means that cheating and plagiarism will be penalized, and a report will be filed with the Student Conduct and Conflict Resolution office.

Graduate Students enrolled in this class are responsible for completing all of the required reading and assignments. In addition, graduate students will conduct the final project individually, following the same guidelines and extending the final essay to 8-10 pages in length (double-spaced, 12 pt. font) with at least 6 scholarly sources. Graduate students must consult with me individually about their project over the course of the semester.

Textbook & Reading

The recommended textbook for this course is Mary Warner Marien, Photography: A Cultural History, 4th ed. (Upper Saddle River: Pearson, 2015). Select chapters will be made available on course reserves.

For each of our meetings, students should come prepared having read and reflected on the assigned readings, ready to ask insightful questions of one another and connect the readings to other topics covered in the semester. Expect to read 20-30 pages for Tuesday classes and 15-20 pages for Thursday classes.
