Summer B 2021 (Online)

Instructor
Gerard Spicer, gspicer@ufl.edu (Please address me as Gerard).

Office Hours: Tuesday/Thursday at 1-1:45pm (over Zoom, link is under “Zoom Conferences” in sidebar)

Please contact your assigned TA via Canvas message with any grading questions. Contact Gerard if your issue has not been resolved by first contacting your assigned TA. Teaching Assistant assignments will be posted in Announcements after drop/add.

Teaching Assistants
Teaching assistants will be grading your work this semester; the TA’s and the instructor check in regularly to make sure that grading is as fair as possible among the sections. You will have the same TA for the entire semester, so be sure to read all emails and announcements from your TA as well as from the instructor. Speak to your TA first about any grading questions, as they can provide the most specific response. The TAs will have individual office hours, which will be listed on the “Start Here” module in Canvas, with links available through the “Zoom Conferences” page.

Course Description
MUL 2010 is designed to examine music and its role in culture: how it both shapes and is shaped by social, political, national, and cultural forces. Examples from Western art music, popular music, and world music will be used to demonstrate music’s inextricable link to life in both historical and contemporary settings. No prior or concurrent courses are required for enrollment in MUL 2010, nor is any prior musical training or experience. However, it is strongly recommended that you have taken ENC 1101 or 1102, as your writing will be held to college level standards.

Course Objectives
This course is designed to enhance the student's understanding of music from a technical, aesthetic, historical, and sociological perspective. To accomplish these goals, the course will concentrate on:

• The development of an attentive style of listening.
• The introduction and systematic study of the building blocks of music.
• Enhancing awareness of the main musical styles of selected Western and non-Western cultures.
• Application of critical thinking skills to musical constructs in order to better understand human creativity and problem solving.

General Education Student Learning Outcomes
This course satisfies humanities (H) and international (N) requirements for general education. Humanities courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and theory or methodologies used within a humanities discipline or the humanities in general. Students will learn to identify and to analyze the key elements, biases, and influences that shape thought. These courses emphasize clear and effective analysis and approach issues and problems from multiple perspectives.

International courses provide instruction in the values, attitudes, and norms that constitute the contemporary cultures of countries outside the United States. These courses lead students to understand how geographic location and socioeconomic factors affect these cultures and the lives of citizens in other countries. Through analysis and evaluation of the students’ own cultural norms and values in relation to those held by the citizens of other countries, they will develop a cross-cultural understanding of the rest of the contemporary world.

In MUL2010, the course is broken down into four major units, each containing 3 to 4 modules, through which a variety of aspects on music are addressed in the context of three major classifications of music: Western “art” music; “popular” music; and “world” music:

• Music Fundamentals (Chapters 1-3): In the introductory section, students learn about how music is experienced individually and culturally; how music is classified (as “world,” “popular,” or “art”); and how to actively listen to pieces. Essential elements of music are introduced and demonstrated, and then applied by students as they analyze three short pieces.
• Musical Identities (Chapters 4-7): Here, the use of music to express individual and collective identities is explored; modules focus on the relationships between music and the life cycle, ethnicity, gender, and spirituality.
• Musical Intersections (Chapters 8-10): This section focuses on music’s relationship to social and political realms, including politics/national identity, war/conflict, and love.
• Musical Narratives (Chapters 11-15): The final section addresses the social experience of music through theater, film, dance, the concert hall and technology. The history of these genres, as well as the social and cultural aspects of them, are discussed and analyzed.

General education student learning outcomes describe the knowledge, skills, and attitudes that students are expected to acquire while completing a general education course at the University of Florida. These outcomes fall into three areas: content, communication, and critical thinking.

• Content: Students demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, methodologies, and theories used within the discipline. Content is primarily assessed through the chapter quizzes and weekly assignments.
• Communication: Students communicate knowledge, ideas, and reasoning clearly and effectively in written or oral forms appropriate to the discipline.
• Critical Thinking: Students analyze information carefully and logically from multiple perspectives, using discipline specific methods, and develop reasoned solutions to problems. Critical thinking is primarily assessed through the Writing Requirement assignments.

Learning Outcomes
Upon completion of this course, the student will be able to:
• Identify the basic components of music using discipline-specific terminology.
• Describe musical works by accurately employing the vocabulary learned in this course.
• Aurally identify musical instruments and voices by classification.
• Aurally identify rudimentary melodic, harmonic, rhythmic, and textural structures.
• Demonstrate an understanding of musical form and texture.
• Express an aesthetic response to a work of art and verbally defend it.
• Define an overview of some of the major stylistic periods in Western music and draw analogies to other arts from the same era.
• Identify some of the major works and artists from these periods.
• Compare and contrast these works to contemporary, popular, and non-Western musical examples.
• Recognize and describe the role(s) that music plays in their own lives, regional culture, and contemporary society as a whole.
• Offer both subjective, emotional commentary and objective analysis of artistic expressions, and to distinguish between the two.
• Articulate some of the forces that have shaped their own taste and aesthetic responses.
• As a result of learning and listening, the student will acquire:
• Increased awareness and curiosity about the past, present and future developments in music.
• A philosophy according to which the student may express and justify his own personal tastes and interest in music.
• The ability to offer music criticisms based upon an acquired set of value judgments.
• An awareness of uses of music in the entertainment and commercial field.
• A greater understanding of Western concert music, as well as modern popular music.
• An enhanced receptivity to the music of other cultures

Textbook

REQUIRED: Companion website, with Spotify links to all listening examples https://routledgetextbooks.com/textbooks/9780415789332/students.php

The e-book is available FOR FREE from the ProQuest E-book Central database on the UF Smathers Library website:

The best way to ensure continued access to the textbook is to download it to your computer; a download lasts up to three weeks, so you will need to do this again in the middle of the semester if you select this option.

While we encourage you to use the free e-book, it is the student’s responsibility to be sure that they have access to the textbook at all times during this course. There will be no exceptions made for late work due to technological issues involving the textbook, as this class does not allow any submissions of late work.

Evaluation of Grades
The grades for this course will be broken down as follows:
30% = Discussions and comments (10 total, lowest score dropped)
29% = Module quizzes (12 total, lowest score dropped)
40% = Projects (student choice: complete 4 out of 6)
1% = Welcome/Syllabus Quiz (to be completed in the first three days of class)
Final grades will be calculated according to the point system below and are not negotiable. You are responsible for keeping track of your progress throughout the semester – the Gradebook in Canvas will always show your current grade. The instructor and TAs will complete grading and post grades for each discussion and assignment within one week of the original deadline. If you are doing poorly near the withdrawal deadline, feel free to discuss your progress with the instructor. There will be an optional extra credit assignment announced in the last two weeks of the semester.

All grades will be determined based on the following scale:

- A: 94-100%
- A-: 90-93%
- B+: 87-89%
- B: 84-86%
- B-: 80-83%
- C+: 77-79%
- C: 74-76%
- C-: 70-73%
- D+: 67-69%
- D: 64-66%
- D-: 60-63%
- E: 0-59

More information on grades and grading policies can be found here: catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/grades-grading-policies/.

PLEASE NOTE: Specific grade questions and concerns will only be discussed with the student. Due to the 1974 Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, the instructor cannot and will not discuss your progress or grades with your parents. For more information on FERPA, please visit http://www.registrar.ufl.edu/ferpa.html. Any correspondence received from your parents/guardians will be responded to with a link to the FERPA information site and nothing more.

Attendance and Conduct

While the presentation of this course in an online format gives you, the student, great freedom in deciding when to engage the course, it is expected that you will log on to the course website regularly and check all assignments. This is not a “self-paced” course - all required assignments for the course will be due according to the dates posted in Canvas. The nature of the course format is such that it will not be possible to submit assignments or take quizzes after the closing deadline. Please note that technical difficulties do arise, and will generally not be considered an excuse to miss a deadline (especially without documentation from the UF Computing Helpdesk). It is in your best interest to complete your assignments early so that you have time to work through any unforeseeable problems. You are advised to read through the technical information posted on the e-Learning website (http://elearning.ufl.edu) to minimize any potential technical issues.

Classes necessarily move quickly during the condensed summer semesters, so our best advice is to follow along with the schedule and ask questions as they arise – we are here to help you and we want to see you succeed! You will have a week to complete two modules; timing of the work is up to you as long as you complete each module on time (by Sunday night at 11:59pm, or Friday at 11:59pm in Week 6). You must complete each module before progressing to the next one, but you will not be able to work ahead of the schedule. Please do not ask the instructor or the TA’s to open up any class work early to accommodate any summer plans.

For conflicts that may arise due to University-sponsored events or religious holidays, you are advised to plan your work in advance. The instructor recognizes and will comply with the University’s attendance policy (catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendancepolicies/); however, since no assignment requires that you log on the day of the deadline, you are responsible for planning ahead and taking care of work before a trip or holiday (including university holidays such as Homecoming). If a conflict seems unavoidable, you must contact the instructor at least one week prior to the date in question.

The instructor reserves the right to amend any portion of the course structure, including items listed on the Due Dates.

Module Schedule
Modules open Monday mornings and close Sunday night at 11:59pm, with the exception of Week 6, which closes Friday night at 11:59 pm due to the university’s grading deadline for Summer B.

Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.
Please email your accommodation letter to Gerard by the Drop/Add deadline so that modifications can be made. Accommodations are not provided retroactively.
