Course Description

You are a creator! Whether actor, director, designer, technician, stage manager, or crew member, you help to create a live theatre production intended to communicate concepts, thoughts, and emotions to an audience. A play script provides you with a crucial starting point—a seed for the creation of a fully realized production. Without the ideas, themes, and language typically provided in the form of a script, there is no foundation from which to develop a production. The script is a vital source of information that inspires the creative choices of everyone working on a production and greatly impacts what an audience ultimately sees and hears on stage. In fact, the script is so important that theatre artists often insist that their primary responsibility is to honor the playwright's intentions. But how can we honor the playwright's intentions if we cannot discern them? To identify the playwright's intentions, we learn everything we can about all the material the playwright has given us in the script. The purpose of script analysis is to develop our unique understandings of the ideas in the play and to comprehend how the play's construction functions to convey those ideas. As theatre professionals, we can apply what we learn from script analysis to our creative work and determine how best to realize the playwright's intentions clearly, powerfully, and dramatically on stage.

Course Goal & Learning Outcomes

The overall goal of this course is to provide you with the analytical skills needed to realize a script on stage.

The learning outcomes of this course represent the knowledge, skills, and abilities you will develop by the end of the semester. Upon successful completion of this course, you will be able to demonstrate:

1. An understanding of a variety of lenses of analysis used to draw meaning from a dramatic text.
2. Facility in applying analysis to production elements in order to establish concepts and reinforce meaning within the text.
3. Familiarity with a variety of texts, including those from playwrights who give voice to stories that are marginalized, overlooked, or appropriated.
4. The ability to think, read, and write critically in order to build a sound argument for production and creative choices.
5. The ability to apply script analysis to a collaborative creative process.

You will accomplish the above goals and outcomes via thorough and thoughtful engagement and participation in this course, which includes all of the following components:

Attendance

Attendance and punctuality are mandatory and count from day one of this course. This professor takes absence and lateness extremely seriously.

Absence Count	Course Grade Penalty
1	No Penalty
2	No Penalty
3	- 5 points / Half a Letter Grade Deduction
4	- 10 points / Full Letter Grade Deduction
5	- 15 points / Full Letter Plus Half a Letter Grade Deduction
6	- 20 points / Two Full Letter Grades Deduction
7	- 30 points / Three Full Letter Grades Deduction
8	AUTOMATIC COURSE FAILURE

If you provide official documentation (such as doctor's note, police report, letter from employer, etc.) for an absence, then the penalty for that absence will be waived, up to a maximum of 30 points. However, it is crucial to note:

8 absences result in automatic failure of this course—even if documentation was provided for previous absences.

- Three latenesses or early departures will be excused. Each additional lateness or early departure results in 3 points deducted from the course grade.
- Lateness or early departure of more than 15 minutes constitutes a full absence.

If you must miss a class meeting for any reason, please notify the professor and any group partners PRIOR to the missed class; this does NOT “excuse” your absence; it is simple professional courtesy.

If absent, it is YOUR responsibility to obtain information about missed course content, which may include information or directions for upcoming assignments. Class buddies, study partners, or small study groups are strongly recommended. Reach out to your classmates and build community.

Absence for religious observance is excused without documentation and receives no penalty. Students are expected to inform the professor within the first two weeks of the course about all planned absence for religious observance.

All requirements detailed above for class attendance and punctuality are consistent with UF policies that can be found at: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>

Readings & Materials

- Required Reading: There are no textbooks assigned for this course. Instead, play readings, book chapters, and articles are assigned throughout the course and available via links on the course syllabus. Important: Students are expected to bring to every class a paper or electronic copy of the reading for the current week.
- Required Viewing: Film and video viewings are also assigned in this course. Typically, films/videos will be available via links on the course syllabus and/or via the UF library.
- Required Theatre-Going: Attendance to a live theatre production produced by UF’s School of Theatre and Dance is also an important assignment in this course. Students will be required to buy a ticket (approximately $15) well in advance of the performance date and complete an assignment based on the performance. Early in the semester, the professor will provide further information on the production and how to purchase tickets.

Both of these materials are highly recommended but not required:

- Diana Hacker and Nancy Sommers, A Pocket Style Manual, 9th Ed. Bedford/St. Martin’s, 2020. $19.99 Kindle/$34.37 Spiral Bound. Available on Amazon.
- Purdue University OWL (Free Online)

(MLA style for citing sources used in papers/assignments)

Coursework & Assignments

Successful completion of all coursework and assignments will help students to accomplish the above learning outcomes 1 - 5. Each of the following items is designed to address all 5 learning outcomes of this course.

I. Read & Respond

Students will read an average of 30 pages (primarily play scripts) each week of the course and create a total of 10 responses to the readings across the course. These responses will:

1. Help students think critically about and process the meanings of assigned readings.
2. Prepare students for thoughtful participation in class discussions about the readings.
3. Enable students to demonstrate how well they understand the readings, which informs the professor about aspects of the material that may be unclear to the class, so that the instructor can address those aspects in a subsequent lesson.
4. Provide opportunities for students to respond to the readings/viewings not only with their minds, but also with their hearts—making personal, intuitive, or creative connections to the material.

Students will respond to a question or prompt provided by the professor about the week's readings. The format of students' responses will vary according to the directions provided by the professor in Canvas. Sometimes, the assignment will call for a response to be written in two or three paragraphs totaling 250 – 300 words. Other times, the assignment will call for a response to be prepared in a creative or media format (e.g., not only text, but also image, photo, audio, or video).

II. Group Presentation

Students will work in small groups to prepare a presentation based on one of the plays we read in the course. As a group, students will present a brief excerpt of the play and then facilitate a classroom discussion about their work. An informative handout devised by the group will accompany the presentation and be distributed to the entire class. The format options and guidelines for these presentations will be discussed further in class and made available on Canvas along with grading rubrics. After the presentation, each student will submit a written self-assessment detailing their specific contributions to the project. The professor will provide students with guiding questions to be answered in their self-assessments. This project will not be considered complete until the professor receives the post-presentation self-assessment. The professor will afford some class time for groups to work together on the preparation of their presentations. However, groups will also need to work together outside of class to properly prepare their presentations.

III. Script Analysis

As a culminating project, students will individually develop a creative and comprehensive script analysis of one of the following plays: She Kills Monsters, The Elaborate Entrance of Chad Deity, Jaja's African Hair Braiding. Students will turn in 4 draft sections throughout the semester plus a final version of the analysis project. While this script analysis project will include some required elements, there will also be room for creativity and options as to the format of your project. This project will include citation of sources using MLA format with both in-text citations and a works cited page. Please note: for information on how to cite time-based sources, such as a video, scroll to the bottom of the linked document. Further guidelines and grading rubrics will be available on Canvas.

IV. Contributions to the Classroom Community

1. ENGAGEMENT: Your robust and consistent in-put during class discussions and learning activities, including full-class discussions, small group work, in-class writing, and other classroom activities.
2. LISTENING: Your focused attention on the lesson and on your professor and peers as they instruct, present, or contribute to class discussions and learning activities.
3. COMMUNICATION: Your open, proactive, cooperative, and respectful communication with your professor and classmates at all times.

Rubric for Contributions to the Classroom Community

	EXEMPLARY 90% - 100% 45 - 50 points	PROFICIENT 80% - 90% 40 - 45 points	DEVELOPING 70% - 80% 35 - 40 points	UNSATISFACTORY < 70% < 35 points

Student initiates a thoughtful contribution (question, response, observation, etc.) once in each class meeting.	Student initiates a thoughtful contribution (question, response, observation, etc.) once in at least half of the class meetings.	Student does not initiate a thoughtful contribution (question, response, observation, etc.) in at least half of the class meetings and needs the instructor to solicit input.
2. LISTENING	Student always listens to and makes collegial eye contact with the professor and classmates whenever they are speaking or presenting. Student's remarks always respond to, relate to, or productively build upon professor's or peers' comments or questions; this includes sometimes reminding the class of pertinent comments made by someone earlier in the discussion. Student never multitasks on an electronic device; they are attentive at all times in every class meeting.	Student nearly always (at least 93% of the time) listens to and makes collegial eye contact with the professor and classmates when they are speaking or presenting. Student's remarks almost always respond to, relate to, or productively build upon professor's or peers' comments or questions. On rare occasions, the student needs encouragement or a reminder of the topic at hand. Still, the student never multitasks on an electronic device; and is attentive nearly always.	Student sometimes (5% - 7% of the time) does not listen to or make collegial eye contact with the professor or classmates when they are speaking or presenting. Sometimes the student's comments do not pertain to or productively build upon peers' comments or questions. Student is sometimes distracted, off-topic, off-task, or their attentiveness is inconsistent.	Student often (more than 7% of the time) does not listen to or does not make collegial eye contact with the professor or peers when they are speaking or presenting. Student's comments infrequently respond to or build upon the professor's or peers' comments or questions. Student is often distracted or inattentive.
3. COMMUNICATION	Student always shows respect for the professor and for all classmates, both in speech and manner, and student shows respect for the method of shared inquiry and discussion in our class. ## Formatting Written Assignments

Written assignments are turned in as MS Word (.doc) or Rich Text Format (.rtf) documents to the course site on Canvas. PDFs are not accepted. Papers are formatted in 12-point Times New Roman font, double-spaced with 1-inch margins and pages numbered. Include a word-count at the top of the first page. Include your name, course number, date submitted, word-count, and a strong and captivating title for all assignments. In addition to turning in assignments on Canvas, students will sometimes be asked to bring to class a print-out of the assignment on paper.

The Writing Studio

The Writing Studio is committed to helping University of Florida students meet their academic and professional goals by becoming better writers. Visit the Writing Studio online at <http://writing.ufl.edu/writing-studio/> or in 2215 Turlington Hall for one-on-one consultations.

Additional Course Policies

Due Dates

All assignments are due at the start of the class on the date listed on the course schedule.

- The penalty for late assignments is 2 points deducted for each day the assignment is late.
- Submission of late assignments without penalty requires a valid, officially documented reason, such as absence excused by a doctor's note. If an assignment is missed due to an officially documented excused absence, then it will be due no later than 7 days after the student's return to school.
- An assignment missed due to unexcused absence cannot be made up.

Class Demeanor

Students are expected to arrive to class on time, to participate with a positive attitude, and to conduct themselves in a professional manner that is always respectful to their professor and fellow students. Opinions held by other students should be respected in discussion, and conversations that do not contribute to the discussion are to be avoided.

Cell phones are not permitted to be visible or audible in the classroom. Phones are turned off or silenced (and not on vibrate), and phones are stored entirely out of sight inside a pocket or bag at all times. Cell phone use in class is highly disrespectful to the professor and fellow students.

- A visible or audible phone or any phone use in the classroom count as lateness to class.
- Do not gather your things or pack up your bag until the official end time of class; doing otherwise is disrespectful to classmates and the professor and counts as lateness to class.

You may consume only small, hand-held snacks with a wrapper (like a protein bar or apple slices in a baggie). You may consume only beverages with a very secure lid. Properly dispose of all trash. Do not ever leave trash in the classroom; doing otherwise will result in the termination of food and beverage privileges for everyone in the class.

An open line of communication between us is of the utmost importance. Always feel free to reach out and communicate with me; my job is to guide and support you in learning and I do it happily. If you have a question, concern, confusion, or problem relevant to this course, please don't worry, don't fret, and don't go to other people before you come to me. Reach out to me and I will be happy to help and support you.

Canvas & Email

All students in this course are required to use Canvas, UF's official learning management system. Students access Canvas frequently for updates to the course schedule, to access assignment information and reading materials, to turn in assignments, and for other important course information. All students are required to have an active UF email account (@ufl.edu), which they check at least once a day (or more often, if possible). State laws require that all emails related to a course must come from students' UF accounts rather than personal accounts (such as Gmail or Yahoo). Emails to the instructor should be respectful and use professional standards of language and communication. To resolve technical issues with email or Canvas visit the UF Computing Help Desk website or email helpdesk@ufl.edu or call 352-392-HELP (4357).

Content Alert

In this course, we examine content and materials that some may find difficult. It is important that in a process of learning and intellectual development we do not shy away from engaging with materials that may be controversial or challenging. In class, if you need to step away briefly as we examine particular content, you may do so without penalty, but please remember you are responsible for any information covered in your absence.

Content in the arts and humanities sometimes includes works and discussions that address themes, situations, actions, or language that can be offensive to some students on the grounds of sexual explicitness, profanity, violence, or blasphemy. As UF is devoted to the principle of academic and artistic freedom, it is not the University's practice to censor controversial works on any of these grounds. Part of the student's work is to learn how to investigate and analyze content that may convey perspectives that differ from their own views. Learning can be challenging and uncomfortable at times. Our goal is to establish a learning environment that is a safe space and a brave space where we can experience new ideas, take healthy and creative risks, and grow as artists, scholars, and human beings. If you have questions or concerns about these issues, then please communicate privately with the instructor as early as possible in the semester.

Students are encouraged to employ critical thinking and to rely on data and verifiable sources to interrogate all assigned readings and subject matter in this course as a way of determining whether they agree with their classmates and/or their instructor. No lesson is intended to espouse, promote, advance, inculcate, or compel a particular feeling, perception, viewpoint, or belief.

Students Requiring Accommodation

Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the disability Resource Center by visiting <https://disability.ufl.edu/students/get-started/>. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester.

UF Evaluations Process

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/>. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via <https://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/>. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/public-results/>.

In-Class Recordings

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may NOT publish recorded class lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does NOT include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services.

A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.

University Honesty Policy

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states:

We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment."

The Honor Code specifies several potential violations, including plagiarism. Section 3.E. prohibits and defines plagiarism as follows:

Plagiarism. A Student must not represent as the student's own work all or any portion of the work of another. Plagiarism includes but is not limited to:

1. Stealing, misquoting, insufficiently paraphrasing, or patch-writing.
2. Self-plagiarism, which is the reuse of the student's own submitted work, or the simultaneous submission of the student's own work, without the full and clear acknowledgment and permission of the Faculty to whom it is submitted.
3. Submitting materials from any source [including ChatGPT or any other source of artificial intelligence] without proper attribution.
4. Submitting a document, assignment, or material that, in whole or in part, is identical or substantially identical to a document or assignment the student did not author.

Plagiarism on any assignment will automatically result in the referral of the student to the Dean of Students for consideration of academic and student status sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor in this class.

The Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code may be read in their entirety at:

<https://sccr.dso.ufl.edu/policies/student-honor-code-student-conduct-code/>

The professor reserves the right to modify the syllabus and/or course schedule as deemed necessary.
Students will be notified of any substantive changes to the syllabus.
