Course Description:

The so-called Spanish Golden Age, or “Siglo de Oro” (Golden Century), lasted roughly 150 years, from the discovery of the Americas in 1492 to the mid-seventeenth century. This period of political and cultural ascendancy, which saw the Spanish empire take root at home and across the Atlantic and Asia, gave rise to many of Spain’s greatest cultural achievements.

This course examines the artworks and artists that made this period special, as well as the patrons and colonial politics underpinning the period’s achievements. We will focus, in particular, on painters such as El Greco, Francisco de Zurbarán, and Diego Velázquez, connecting their artistic production to artistic movements throughout Europe and to the broader trends of the baroque. We will explore the remarkable corpus of polychrome sculpture produced by sculptors such as Juan Martínez Montañés during the period, and examine their role in religious rituals and processions. We will also examine the major architectural trends and monuments from the period, including the Escorial and the Buen Retiro Palace in Madrid.

Lastly, we will examine the connections between Spain and its overseas Viceroyalties in the Americas, situating the “golden age” within the arc of Spanish imperialism and the extractivist politics of colonialism. This survey of painting, sculpture, and architecture from the period will help students understand the ideas and values underpinning this singular moment in artistic history, as well as the place of Spanish golden age art within a broader European and global context.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

- Comprehend the cultural constitution of “Golden Age Spain,” including geographical and cultural diversity and the historical connection between the church and the crown.
- Recognize, interpret, and analyze art and architecture created by the major figures from the period based on style, content and contextual analysis.
- Comprehend the historiography of the region—that is, the history of how Spanish art has been understood by scholars and collectors during the past 500 years.
- Compare early-modern worldviews with those of our modern-day culture.

- Improve writing skills by completing a research paper, as well as several smaller writing assignments.

Requirements and Grading:

Required Readings: There is no required textbook for the course. Instead, we will rely on numerous book chapters and articles available on our Canvas page.

Requirements:

All students must:

- (1) attend class (see attendance policy below)
- (2) complete assigned readings before the classes for which they are assigned
- (3) participate in class discussions and activities
- (4) complete homework assignments, including reading analysis assignments
- (5) write a substantial research paper about a related theme

Grading:

- 15% Attendance & Participation in class
- 15% Reading Analysis Assignments and Discussion Questions
- 20% Graduate only readings and conversations
- 30% Substantial research paper
- 10% Midterm Assignment
- 10% Final Assignment

For more on grading at UF see: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/grades-grading-policies/>

Attendance and Participation

Attendance is extremely important for this class, as many of our learning outcomes can only be achieved by attending class and participating fully in the lecture and in-class discussion. Each day you will need to sign in to ensure that you receive attendance points.

The completion of in-class discussion and in-class assignments will also form a part of your attendance and participation grade. This means that in addition to attending class you need to come having read the assigned materials and be willing to share your thoughts. Throughout the semester we will also have in-class writing assignments and short activities that will help ensure that students who might feel hesitant to share their thoughts will be able contribute.

The attendance policy is as follows: You will be allowed two un-penalized absences, which assumes that everyone needs a day here or there when we are sick or have conflicts. For each subsequent absence you will lose 2 points from the “Attendance” portion of your final grade. In order to have an absence excused you must send me appropriate documentation from a doctor, advisor, etc. Note that excessive absences are grounds for receiving a failing grade for the class, and failure to sign in (if you are late, for example) will be counted as an absence. For more on the attendance policies and guidelines at UF see:

<https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>

Reading Analysis Assignments and Discussion Questions

Throughout the semester there will be several occasions where you will need to answer questions about the readings that are assigned for the class. These questions will appear in Canvas and will take the form of direct response or online discussion boards. Each assignment will target a single reading and thus will require that you read and engage with the material. They will help you develop your critical reading and thinking skills. Most times, the questions will be discussed in-depth during class, but they should be completed before the start of class on the day indicated in the assignment (when we cover the material in lecture). No late assignments will be accepted (without formal excuses).

Graduate Only Readings and Conversations

You can find a few additional readings assigned on the syllabus below. These are intended to supplement the regular readings, providing you a broader glimpse at the scholarly discourse and issues in the field. You should read those texts and bring questions about those and other issues to our graduate only session for further conversation.

Substantial Research Paper

This class provides you a chance to write a substantial research paper that will advance your masters or PhD research. You will need to discuss the topic and plans with me and secure my approval. Then work to complete an approximately 20 page paper (could be negotiated longer, but not shorter) by MONDAY DEC. 8th

Midterm and Final Assignments

Instead of tests, graduate students will need to complete midterm and final assignments. Both assignments will have the same format. They will take the form of summaries of the content covered in class, including major ideas, artworks, and readings. More precise information will be available by week 3.

Midterm Due Friday October 10th

Reminders and Requirements

For a complete list of UF policies applicable to this class please see: <https://go.ufl.edu/syllabuspolicies>

UF Requirements and Policy: Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>

Statement Regarding the Honor Pledge: UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.” The Conduct Code specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. See the UF Conduct Code website for more information. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

Accommodations: Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the disability Resource Center. To get started with the DRC please visit the following page:

<https://disability.ufl.edu/get-started/>

It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with instructors and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester.

Changes to the Syllabus: While this document provides guidelines for the class, I do reserve the right to change the syllabus at any time during the semester if the need arises. Each class is different, and sometimes it takes some tweaking to get the right readings, topics, and assignments. Being flexible with the syllabus allows us to get it right.

In-Class Recording: Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal education use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor. A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and deliver by an instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course.

A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentation such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or guest lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless, of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third-party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.

Please inform me (the instructor) before you record any content.

Plagiarism

Please be attentive to the new regulations in the student handbook related to AI. It is copied below and can be found in full at the following webpage: <https://policy.ufl.edu/regulation/4-040/>

(e) Plagiarism. A Student must not represent as the Student’s own work all or any portion of the work of another person or Entity. Plagiarism includes but is not limited to:

5. Submission of Academic Work Purchased or Obtained from an Outside Source. A Student must not submit as their own work any academic work in any form that the Student purchased or otherwise obtained from an outside source, including but not limited to: academic work in any form generated by an Entity; academic materials in any form prepared by a commercial or individual vendor of academic materials; a collection of research papers, tests, or academic materials maintained by a Student Organization or other entity or person, or any other sources of academic work.

Notes on Technology and Communication

- Communication and Respect: We all must strive to be good communicators to make this class successful. This means listening respectfully to others in class (faculty and students) and engaging in respectful conversation. It also, perhaps just as importantly, means maintaining professional standards while communicating via email and outside of class. With that in mind, please use formal, respectful, and professional standards when corresponding via email. This means beginning emails with a formal greeting, employing proper grammar, and avoiding unprofessional colloquialisms.
- Canvas: Please make sure that you are familiar with our course site on Canvas so that you will have access to announcements, assignments and readings, and pptx presentations you will need for your work.
- Course Evaluations: Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online. Students can complete evaluations in three ways:
 - The email they receive from GatorEvals
 - Their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals
 - The central portal at <https://my-ufl.bluer.com>Guidance on how to provide constructive feedback is available at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/>. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/public-results/>.
